The Case Study Focus

As the MBA program is uniquely designed to develop management perspective and skills, the case method is integrated as a dominant tool in the education methodology. It is not enough for the student to be equipped with merely the management tool and techniques. To be an effective management professional, the student has to be trained to think and act like one. Thus, the program has a very strong case study orientation.

The program will use case studies of reputed Indian and international companies. These cases will help the student understand the complexities in various business political, legal and social environment.

MANAGEMENT IS A SKILL NOT A THEORY. A case study is a description of an actual administrative situation involving a decision to be made or a problem to be solved.

The case-study method may be new to you. Experience has shown that case studies bring interesting, real-world situations into the classroom study in various management sectors.

As you discuss cases, you will learn that decision making is often a confrontational activity involving people with different points of view. Most important, you will learn how to work toward consensus while tolerating legitimate differences of opinion.

Decision making is what managers do. The decisions of managers directly influence revenues, costs, and profits of an organization. If you are to be successful in a corporate career, you must learn to be a good decision maker. You must develop the ability to apply classroom training in business and economics to organizational problem solving so that you can learn how to

- (1) Make decision making easier,
- (2) Improve the analytical quality of decisions,
- (3) Reduce the time required to make decisions, and
- (4) Increase the frequency of correct decisions.

After completing a few case studies, you should find them an interesting and rewarding way to learn. You will soon discover, however, that case studies require an approach that is different from normal homework assignments. Each case can have more than one right answer depending on how the problem is defined and which assumptions are made.

Students commonly spend several hours preparing the solution for a case assigned for classroom discussion. The time you spend working on case studies will be well spent because it will prepare you to confidently take on a position in organization which decision-making challenges face you each day. Success in your career will be the real reward for the work you do in preparing case studies.

Designation Growths :

We believe that for many types of roles, an MBA is foundational. It gets people talking a common language and because an MBA curriculum will generally cover finance, marketing, stats, etc., a candidate with an MBA generally has the ability to think broadly about business decisions that they make relative to multiple moving parts. Keep in mind that the person telling you this has a Two MBA.

Any MBA admissions does their own filtering process to recognize certain traits required to be a manager who can undertake all sort of communication as a grid to launch key business issues on daily basis. A solid program is going to admit the best students they possibly can. Those programs with the best reputations have a broader pool of candidates to select from and a higher chance of getting the candidates they want. By selecting an MBA grad from a "top" program means you can be assured that the person has a record of achievement, in the classroom, in business or both.

For having better result from manager its also observed that executive programme are also rendering a great service for big houses to appoint senior executive for having cross functional understanding to roll out the key planning to all

It is definitely not to say that others without MBAs could not have achieved similar success. But when you think about how recruiters recruit; looking for pockets of greatness in the industry, MBA alumni are a solid pool to be fishing in. Think of MBA is a last resort to do, and is a not a knock-out criteria, when it comes to resumes.

An MBA also suggests something about the drive of the person that holds it. They either took 2-4 years off from their professional life to pursue higher education or they pursued it while working a full-time position. It's quite an achievement and I think that having an MBA really says a lot about the motivation and drive of the person that has it.

So the short answer to why MBA is everything in today's business? In our opinion, it's because we ask the hiring managers to write the job description before the recruiter has a chance to eradicate the concept of the "ideal candidate" from their minds. It's because having an MBA says something about the candidate that is positive and it takes more work to extract the potential for greatness however from non-MBA resumes it seem to be a distance dream.

Master in Business Administration

It is truth that the person who have no idea of business theories and principles and past of business with some trends and setting, is not a professional as he can not articulate the present and future of the business of any sort with the fervor. People are firm believer of the fact that it is only Masters born with certain traits, lucky born in particular environment & family, have all those basics traits are typically required to be an entrepreneur or working professional to estimate business future very close to their plan and undertake the plan to prove it to be a profitable business to create wealth for the org, personnel working with org & himself/herself. However every business org do not necessarily conduct business for profit alone, a few conduct for expansion and wait for the time to cash it.

In history of business proprietor or working professional, there is always a lot of people who sacrifice there day & night to take the business to new glory and height, and share the profit in the same ratio. People are supporting, age have no bar to conduct any size of business. Is MBA necessary for doing business? Yes we support the issue and advocate very much, it is mandatory part of having a master in business from a descent B school. What we are finding since last certain years that majority of people undermining and blaming MBA course itself, cursing to the degree to an extent, as such this professional degree brought recession and whole of business, especially finance system collapse due to poor planning and wrong investment. No...nooooo dear no, we are furious over this version, its not like this, please don't blame courses that has given range to all those who were of no worth in term of business by allowing small food shop, food shop and transport , services and big houses like malls and multiplexes, young manager working for business proprietors day & night taking all responsibility to justify his/her fatty CTC, and every time S/he justify the worth of higher CTC to the corporate. Today may not be just today many have got opportunity because for such a high range of expansion, beyond manageable and scaled all heights of business and yet be going for more Global. Since business have got expand to such a large scale that it is the only masters and talented qualified professional who can take cares of the business and meet the boundaries by taking the business activity from one land to another using culture, advantages & basics of management fit to the land.

We think business community is confused to a large extent. It's your budget and time frame whether you want to scale it earlier or would like to delay due to fund crunch, inability to hire talented MBA's it's a great question since many of our job portal list the MBA as "preferred"; some may even list it as a requirement, I am sure Proprietor is confused to establishes its requirement as a takes about MBA and Non MBA,s. The Organizations should not ask MBA qualified to a position that are un-ambitious in its character and have nothing to do with management since proprietor have enough to handle it and have nothing to transfer to the position. Since a manger logic at work is taking complete ownership of the position and Jobs with clear accountability and given responsibility with in the parameter of authority assigned.
